ON THE MIDWAY

Audrius Pliplys, MD '75, works as a child neurologist and a research neuroscientist trying to find causes and cures for learning disorders and autism in children and for Alzheimer's disease in the elderly. When not spending time with his wife, Sigita, and two daughters, ages 10 and 17, he works on his art. Earlier this year, he exhibited a series of neurotheology works at the International Museum of Surgical Sciences in Chicago. The series will be on exhibit again at the Absolut Vision Chicago this July.

Thoughts of Demons, University of Chicago is a 4x5 acrylic on canvas, one of many neurotheology works of art by alumnus Audrius Pliplys.
