

Dr. Audrius V. Plioplys is not only a successful neurologist, he is also a talented artist. After completing medical school at the University of Chicago in 1975 and an internship in adult internal medicine at the University of Wisconsin Hospitals, he left medicine for three years to create and show his artwork full-time in Washington, D.C. Later, he returned to medicine and started a residency in adult neurology at the Mayo Clinic. Although he is currently a child neurologist at Michael Reese and Mercy Hospitals and Chairman of the Pediatric Long Term Care Section of the American Medical Director's Association, he continues to create art with neurological themes. On September 3, an exhibition of Dr. Plioplys' artworks opened in the Vilnius Art Academy's gallery "Akademija," at which the artist himself attended.
